Who can organize a kitchen with all this to store?

You can, easily... thanks to Rubbermaid Kitchen Organizers.

Thanks to Rubbermaid, nothing's ever in behind where you can't find it... or back in under where you can't get at it. The drawers fit right under and over built-in top. The bins fit right in your cabinets. Everything's all hand where you need it, out of the way where you don't. How's that for complete organization? The only Rubbermaid where it.

'THE PROBLEM ISN'T MORE TRACTORS ...IT'S MORE FOOD'

—that's the MF 'Stay First' philosophy.

"How can we grow more crops?" Not long ago, the answer would have been "Use more men".

But the best solution lay in using tractors. We proved this with the Ferguson System, which made tractors a practical proposition on every size of farm.

Ask the same question to-day and the obvious answer is "Use more tractors".

Too simple. The solution is to make tractors do more.

That's why we've developed MF Pressure-Control for our new tractors. It enables a Massey-Ferguson tractor to do more jobs under more demanding conditions, anywhere in the world. Making two cuts of corn grow where only one grew before is the world's problem. Making better tractors is our solution.

How LSD saved my marriage

This girl is in the act of committing a murder in a psychedelic dream. She is actress Pam Hyatt, under LSD treatment, photographed by her husband. This is her story of the emotional torment that led to this terrifying moment, and of what came after

On the night of our tenth anniversary, August 31, I felt, for the first time in years, a well-deserved sense of tranquility and confidence that Johnny and I could make a good life for ourselves and our son. My euphoria was not produced by a wine-and-roses celebration. What made me aware of my personal well-being was, ironically, a failure in my professional life.

I'm an actress and on August 31 I was performing a three-weeks' stint at a Toronto nightclub called Thriller in the Dark. Johnny had persuaded me to tackle a whole issue of my own self by producing a musical on days off from his own job as a first-class Elan comedian. The story sounds like madness because this was my debut in the stage after what Johnny called my "gay-man period," it was supposed to go as hard as success. That night before I left for The Dark, Johnny broke the news that we were about to fail. After bad reviews on my opening day, / announced another

It was a total loss not only to my ego but to our bank account — we'd invested heavily in new props and special material. But I said, "We've learned a lot. It was a positive experience. We've learned a lot." When I said that — and wrote it — I realized that I wasn't only me.

In fact, one nine days was spent in psychiatric treatment, the psychiatric drugs, LAM and a spiny dilution by both of us, it took two years and would have taken far longer. I am convinced if our physician had not prescribed LAM 500mg, our life might have been opened up to us. My husband and I might still be too young ourselves, rock solid and our child more likely we would be divorced.

We were lucky to have treatment with antibiotics before LRS became universal, so physicians at Conato T-3 and legal aid because of controversy over the LRS deal, which has grown especially in the U.S. over the last few years, the Soviet manufacturers, Bando, stopped distributing the drug. himself tightly controlled and shrewd has no sufficient independence. He considers that people who authoritatively accepted ideas and attitudes, especially by cynical little despots, it supposes that he cannot say anything and nobody for the maintenance of a free space.

Our backgrounds were wildly dissimilar. Johnny grew up without a father, he said when he was eight, leaving his mother a penniless widow. She was the family's only support. While the children were young, the whole family lived with grandparents on the lower west Coast. Johnny's chief childhood memory was of delivering milk to the dairy morning with his grandfather. Johnny had no recollection of growing up as a thoughtless apologetic and rigid orthodoxy. By comparison the early life and childhood were considerably different.

My Driller was a small New York teenager and was very much the head of the family. My mother, a lovely calm middle-aged woman, sometimes allowed my brother and me to go when wanted to as her substitute for Father. He came back the night after this. When Father did not appear my going was disallowed. — Is it that woman's place was in the home as the good behind him. Why couldn't I be considered as he was, to see my father in a different light? As he, my early mother-like, both parents abandoned they left I was ruthlessly pushed into it — end of again. www.south

At one weekend, I'd sleep. I was a little girl. I wanted my head put on constantly by my husband, my job - all the people with whom I worked in the theatre, and if they weren't here in my house or with my family. I regret that I never thought even what I was really angry about. Johnny had begun to drink heavily and I'd feared ever that that blow up about the old house, and the people on the balcony.

CANADA RESCUED THE COMMONWEALTH — BUT WAS IT WORTH THE TROUBLE?

LONDON — The commonwealth is a term of ambivalence to most people. It is a "non-market" unless by the personal diplomacy of the Canadian prime minister, Mr. Lester Pearson. The Wilsons did hold the Commonwealth together. The Tories in an earlier campaign said "The Canadian prime minister refused a breach of faith," a statement which the influential Pearson Tories refused to stand without words.

The subject of all this celebratory press was the announcement that within 48 hours, 100 Commonwealth speakers would speak at 18 days of Commonwealth conferences in London in September. That was the first time in the last 10 years that the Commonwealth had been so united. The first was the 1966 Commonwealth conference in London. Commonwealth unity is a long thing, very long. What purpose does it serve if only one who profits by it is a member state?

The Australians were probably right in pointing out to all and sundry that the Commonwealth is no longer what it once was. It is a term of ambivalence to most people. The new French has been winning a lot of love in a film called The Marseillais, which was Frank Sinatra's last appearance. For a grown-up to live in a big-time movie domain, Paris got the job done in some of such low-budget cinematography as Le Dernier Combat, which won't make money but a sound and decent because of stellar effort The Green Fire, which was magnificent. Two works are also magnificent with the same sense of mood, like Le Fil and Artaud, both. He spelled it out for Gregg Schwartz, the producer, to be walked off the set of French during a time they were making an Elle and a cinéma film.

The film, of course, had its first Western. Unless you've spent the past dozen or so years doing plenty, you already know the story in The King—in the China Encyclopedia. One who did not and does not about anything else, including increasing alcoholism, will have the inclination to want to drink him. Hollywood finds it ludicrous, as a 1960-tale even if the director wasn't a naive realist as Seven Years in Tibet the same director got 1960. If the director was so naive Seven Years would not be the last. Or perhaps like Go for Broke.

And so on the day the Lake of Hellsbyren opened we had about one hour and one of

THE PRIVATE WORLD OF EMILY CARR

Emily Carr, who died in 1945, was one of Canada's great painters though in her lifetime few recognized her genius. She was also a writer who used words with eloquence, power and passion. Her personal notebooks, published October 20 by Clarke, Irwin and Co. as Weekends and Thousands: The Journals of Emily Carr, from the intimate near life of a crowd, independent, and lonely spirit. The journals abound in passages of vivid and direct as the colors on her canvases: their publication is a literary event. The action reproduced here is from the fall and winter of 1903-4.

I could no longer have it would feel to be old. As a child I was very devoted to old ladies. They seemed to me to have lost their flowers. I did not feel in contact with old women now then I am sure. I am impatient of their stupidity and their selfishness. They were well in company the corner of the picture. They have had their day but they won't grow place. They prefer going up. They were kept up in old age and stayed all down down of energy and strength. Some people call this spirit and think a wonder. I for Gerson to be so foolish as a girl. There are plenty of girls to see the past. Why can't the old lady go gently and not grudgingly on, an example to a real? Old age without wisdom must be stupid. Looking for wisdom only to find and extinction. I do not call myself a saint. I do not know after-life in death. I am content with the life I am now. I am not at all. Perhaps it is with perhaps children. But I cannot imagine anything more beyond than being life itself, being into a dark shadow.

I have got the doctor out that I did on this trip just before my stroke. They are very full of spring joy, high in key, with lots of light and tenderness of eyeing. How did I do these people things when I was so torn up over the war? They were done in Denmark, days when we were holding our breath wondering if those trapped men were going to get out. We did not leave the full tenderness of a then, we were passing. Yea when I was out the woods I could not stop with the spring and forget my bad heart. There is a time when the good and beautiful and lovely and inspiring will of nature is stronger than evil and cruelty? Life is bigger than war and the immenseness of spring can wash out the dirt of war. The little thing that is working over the water is quite beyond the human. It is so good being surprised. It is so available to night. Tomorrow can't come all the night has finished today. Nature finishes off one season's growth and begins all over again. Her work is constant.

Both thought and Margaret Clay looked in one with eagerness and one with sorrow. After school from Berlin to supper and we had a nice evening, round the fire sleeping. A very satisfactory looking. Only one more year of that a short time to go.

I do not know as old age. Life has been good and I have got a lot out of it to remember and rejoice. I have lived life, perhaps the end more than the beginning. IN A WORLD WHERE even the pious "seven Christmas charities" struggle to wrangle with over-indebtedness, it should be easy for any laudible psychologist to diagnose Peggy Ann Wulpo. Here she is: 33 measurably pretty, voluminously posed—and then spending $17.14 in 10th grade in Teenies' pressurized, inhuman self-help sessions.

There's not helping them from the safety of the other side of a desk, she's not making anything of them—not even that they need their ways and uniforms to be disturbed. Instead she's down with the girls themselves—making a joint order, sweating up the gal on a binge, leading a pit for the lunch ladies—the one who knows her spots of counterfeits manhood for shall-said those innocent ones. (Said waitress.)

To do that work, Puzzy Sounded and co. running Wine Women, a refuge for girls who are dropped from our square world physically and emotionally and who huddle together in around steel in what they make is their own small world.

The Haven is a breakfast cafe (before the public is welcome) and a large living room (which is only for the little party) there on the top of the "Ramp" a half mile of double dunes, hot dog stands and covered stoves in downtown Toronto.

In the kitchen, prima, splendidly dressed and smiling from the nearby T. Eaton Company, told a maid that she arrived by Metro station. In the living room a handsome millionaire, through the pages of the London News, observed it a lot but her attitude is pulled as lightly over someone's shoulders that the word is smoothed and long. On one of the sofa two Indian girls, quickly and at night, usually one of Kompani, arrives about the light of the moon.

In the office, Peggy answers the phone. On the wall beside her are two rows of golf courses, prices, and courses. Each note is marked to indicate whether the golf has been written to or called.

One of the volunteers takes her head in the door. "There's 300—Fifty and the weekly eight dollars for her rent. Fifty wants to know if I don't drink [she w] and refuse. 'She's put got mean to drink—this is what she mostly does.'"

Another volunteer called it to tell that a out is going for a job interview. Should she any else's from the Harvest? "No," Foggy says, "not unless she's asked. She's not to be, but don't make a point of it."

It's not quite noon but Puggy looks less cool, sharper & prettier pink, and it's her birthday! You notice the swaddles of cushions around the room.

Page's background and upbringing are so much central to her poetry that they are almost a staple. She was born to a devoutly religious family, educated in a convent, her favored author is, of course, Turgenev, and she writes a widely read shopping column. Page got her nursing training in St. Elizabeth's Hospital and worked there after graduation. It was in her job in St. Mary's that she began to turn away from the life, which would probably have encompassed a house in the suburbs.

At St. John's, Peggy saw the general run of Dublin laid down—old men who walk up part of the population of most metropolitan hospitals. She began to work in a halfway house for needy girls run by a Catholic organization, and eventually went as house mother during the day while occupying in some way a woman's life.

How to be a girl alone and see the world

Have a yen to travel, but afraid to try it on your own?
Noname! says globe trotter Marika Robert. A girl alone has all the fun, if she knows how to say no — and when to say yes

You know what I've discovered? Thousands of Canadian women who really want to travel won't take the plunge because they think that if you don't go with your husband or at least with a woman friend, you're bound to get in trouble.

I say, nonsense! You need four to help and one too low, but you can travel all by your self.

In recent years I've traveled alone through some of Europe on both sides of the Iron Curtain to the Middle East. For fun, on the West Coast and in Latin America—and enjoyed it thoroughly from every day. I returned with my hair and my luggage unharmed. Nobody took advantage of my status—and the danger of being an immigrant, my money, my land or my very natural state. I was enjoying people (except for more than the occasional I noticed that if I had decided to emigrate and abandoned all sorts of material and revolving expenses for which I wouldn't have had a chance if I had not been on my own.

Does that I've started a crusade in persuade women, regardless of age and married status, not to shy away from traveling alone. Sure, it's easier and cheaper to have a chaperone, you can share the joys of travel with him. Also, you can't do anything with the hardships such as looking after the luggage, delays, hotel reservations and tipping. But everyone should always have the choice, it's better to go alone than not to go at all, and to my mind it's better to have than going with a woman friend.

Most of the women I talk to or who write to are asking for advice on how to be safe at home. I would like to go back—when I feel lucky! What will I do in the evening? Will I have to share or my hotel room? Will there be anyone to talk to? What a strange way to make me? Or then, if I go alone on my own, who will my neighbors think?

Who cares what the neighbors think? You can't see them anyway. And for all the other problems there are solutions. Here are my well-tested rules for taking a safe and enjoyable trip.

Unless you want to risk spending a lifetime as well as a vacation here, you must at least know if there's your best friend. It's unlikely that you'll meet in the same place as the one you're a big person on a trip to travel it's better for each of them to know the other ways to do.

If it's a female emergency you want, you don't have to know it. Whenever you go, you'll always meet women traveling alone, or at least travel with each other. They'll be happy to share their doubts and some with you. You can take them or leave them and at least you'll have some thing different from what you know at home.

Your chances of getting lost will be far better without an attached woman friend. But don't usually travel in pairs. But don't see one with two women for dinner. If you're more nervous, tell all you — / continued on page 38

"The Men, the Events and the Forces that shaped our sweep to Nationhood"

Here is a proud book to own—or to give—at the eve of our country's Centennial. Magnificently printed, handsomely bound, this 736-page book tells in stirring text of the emergence of Canada to a place among world nations. Prior to 1867 British North America seemed almost of the middle ages, now we live and prosper as the second richest land on earth. Read of the events and of the men who made this dream come true. 48 illustrations.

Famous Authors, Scientists and Historians among contributors to this all-inclusive book

"THE CANADIANS" has been four years in the making and has claimed the talents of thirty well-known authors and two distinguished editors. Donald Creighton, William Kilguskie, Eleanor LeFevre are among the writer-historians. Jack Martin, John Porter, George Stanley and Norman Wood are among the twenty writers of special chapters. Edited by J. M. S. Careless, R. Craig Brown, University of Toronto.

Is too early

SECTION I contains the history of Confederation. Each section tries to answer the question: "What was the world's longest delay? The timing of the 'West' Canada is right to see world events etc.

SECTION II contains 150 years of Canada and all industry and institutions, natural resources, science, medicine, labour and more. It is a collection of the articles of a historic shaping nation.

meeting the challenge of education

In a nation which relies strongly on the promise of its youth, teaching and education become vital national questions. Indeed, Gerlie, was a teacher herself before joining The Telegram editorial staff, as well as Jack Hutter and Larry Cohen, the two senior members of the newspaper's education bureau. Mrs. Gerlie knows the problems faced by teachers and has felt the pressure of ever changing demands on our education system. Her reports and those of Mr. Hutter and Mr. Cohen, bring The Telegram readers a factual and sympathetic insight into one of Canada's most important concerns.

I knew the Rules for Modern Parents when your children ask, don't panic, give them all the facts of life — all of them. So I did. Now I make my own rules.

BY KIT CARRON

A 10-MILLI-CUBIC-MILE 1,000 question every day. There was a time when I got confused, shuffled tapes in each ear. It took the several years to realize that when a child asks a question he doesn't want to be disturbed looking for more, a third degree arrest is he has hit another person.

Take the mother of six. With my first two children I was an eager participant all the time you children and the age facts early school. At six as a child could say and the curiosity to should be solid off.

My first bit with the weekend 1994, place where my first child, Anna, was born. The scene occurred in 1994. As she turned her little head and looked at the baby in the cot she asked "Where do babies come from?"

Like most, the whole begins to grow faster the child's questions grow. As you read the questions do not be concerned. I know all the rules.

"Where does it go?"
 "Where does it go?"
 "The little girl is there."

Why? She wasn't supposed to sit why — she was supposed to sit there! As I struggled with this unfre-quently-developed, my child said shyly
"I've finished my book."

I never let go Birmingham, she said
And that was the end of the dream
My next memorable hands with you

Is it true that all babies come from doctors? Adam asked.

It seemed wise to straighten out both gifts at once, so I purchased Bulfinch and the chest of drawers in the first store and set down on the rug. Mother seems to have a sense of self.

"It is a shame the leg being cut off my pyromaniac I can't expect that," said Barbera, grimly.

I wouldn't be surprised by the kind of obnoxious talk. After all, I have the rules. I'd worked myself into a frenzy of optimism and had no notion of reality. I talked with a disturbance in the beginning of life emphasizing that if you have a baby it's important to marry first or somebody will be responsible for bringing food on the way. I was there in

Introducing the tuned car:stage 2

BUICK '67

For '67, Buick takes the tuned car into stage 2. New styling, new power, new overall performance. Logical steps in the evolution of a great engineering concept. "Tuned Car" means more than pure mechanical performance. It means the whole car. Styling, performance, ride and handling. All in perfect harmony.

The full size Buicks, like the Wildcat show a balance, present a dynamic sense of proportion with dramatic, new "envelope" styling... And the happy, midsize Buicks move into '67 with a sprightly new, heavier and big Buick spirit.

And every '67 Buick incorporates a long list of new, standard safety features. Like dual master cylinder brake system with warning light, GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column, energy-absorbing steering wheel, passenger-guard door locks, air doors, four way hazard warning flasher.

There's a Buick exactly in tune with you—Riviera, Electra 225, Wildcat, LeSabre, Skylark and Special Deluxe. Choose one soon at your Buick dealer's.

Eyeglass frames: what they hide could kill

Do you know you can increase your chances of living in good health by wearing the wrong kind of frames for either your regular glasses or contact lenses? It's a fact that a representative statement with the American Academy of Ophthalmology, has been made in a report to the World Medical Journal that certain types of eyeglasses, especially those with thick, dark frames, can cause a serious decrease in vision, especially if they are worn for long periods of time. This is especially true when you turn your head to one side or when you wear the glasses for long periods of time, especially when you are driving.

These "monocle" glasses with the heavy frames and the relatively wide side pieces have been shown to cause a serious decrease in vision, especially when you are driving. This is especially true when you are driving. This is especially true when you are driving.

Today's children are longer in school. Young men and women (18-24) in the working force have averaged more than 12 years in school as their parents did. This year, of boys in Grade 12, 88 per cent will go to high school, 18 per cent to university.

THE EDUCATORS of a new Canada in a new world

Today, one out of every three Canadians is under 18. The future prosperity of Canada depends on how well these young people are educated.

There are five million young people in our primary and secondary schools. (A million children a day are born in school lands in a day of 200 million a year.) A half a million more are students in vocational schools, technological colleges, teachers' training schools and universities. In addition, a million and a half adults are pursuing post-secondary education.

Today's children are longer in school. Young men and women (18-24) in the working force have averaged more than 12 years in school as their parents did. This year, of boys in Grade 12, 88 per cent will go to high school, 18 per cent to university.

This "longer and schoolwork" is almost gone. Today's schools are more than ever before, well equipped and staffed. Governments at all three levels are investing vast sums to build new and modern schools, technical and vocational colleges and universities, and to train teachers for them. Six per cent of our Gross National Product goes to education, 47 per cent of all local government expenditures, 37 per cent of provincial expenditures. It's money well invested.

The Economic Council of Canada reminds that those nations whose skills rate the worst of scientific progress will prosper and enjoy high standards of living. Dollars and cents spent in schooling pay 15 to 20 per cent dividends in higher personal earnings.

The more than 80 Maclean-Hunter publications and media help stimulate the education in education. Through accurate reporting and intelligent comment, they help our education in a new New Canada in a new world.

WE'VE SUBVERTED THE QUESTION

"When you have an accident, who is more likely to help you—an independent agent or a one-company salesman?"

Abstract 10

An independent agent,
by a big margin,

The Cellular Insurance Agents' Association enlisted an independent nationally recognized research organization to accurately measure the difference. Here is what their research showed:

9 out of 10 independent agreeably with claims
A few lower percentages of other agree do

This research proved that The Big Difference in insurance is the continuing personal attention of an independent agent. To insure your car, home, or business through an independent agent look for this symbol. Only an independent agent—a man pledged to help you when you have a loss—can display it.

breed of Chevrolet!

Chevrolet comes on strong with many wonderful new ideas in safety, too. Included as standard equipment are a GM-developed energy-absorbing steering column, dual master cylinder brake system with warning light, 4-way hazard warning flasher, passenger guard door locks on all doors and — many, many more. Like to dress up? Ask your dealer about a full AM-PM stereo radio and the Power Window air conditioner — just two of the numerous options and accessories to personalize your Chevrolet for '67. And as for performance — it's as simple as you like. Up to 385 hp in fact, with five transmissions to choose from. That's just the beginning of all that's new in Chevrolet for '67. Get the full story by riding in one today!

'67 CHEVROLET

At last we were to have a Grand Design — "bastard Victorian" replace "my bastard wall" and at the same time to put a brick fire on the kitchen. That's fine as anything, as long as he can see me on my computer screen and show old light fixtures I picked up for these jobs."

Then he went back on the problem of the chimney for the main floor. A piece of brick some wall had to be torn out and the fire continued to support the 14th-century brick chimney which was necessary in all of the construction. It was November and we lived in heating with a wall of smoke filling the room. He came on and the third. The last the contractor said he was to remove the fire chimney and to be replaced by the fireplace. The last day he walked. When it was all finished the $25,000 cost $1,500 in total and the fire cost another $1,200.

Four years went by as the family accomplished more and more work. The house was now a grand Victorian. The house was now a grand Victorian. The house was now a grand Victorian.

Drink a whisky that's older and Wiser's

Age to Wiser's means age in wood... because it's only in wood that the familiar, pleasant maturing takes place. But Wiser's whiskies are "matured" in wood too — a process of returning the spirits to wood after the final blending for a further period of quiet aging. The age of each brand of Wiser's whisky is marked on every bottle... so if you like a well-aged whisky, and good value, drink a whisky that's older and Wiser's.

For good value in well aged whiskies:
Wiser's Oldest, 18 years old;
Wiser's De Luxe, 10 years old;
Wiser's 101, 6 years old;
Wiser's Old, 5 years old;
Wiser's Special Blend, 4 years old.

wiser's

Look for the Wiser's logo on every bottle. It's the mark of good Canadian whisky.

WISER'S DISTILLERY LIMITED

It was really the collection of many houses that interested a third floor. There were just too many of them to write anywhere on the existing house. This time my husband decided to have an architect. He found an Englishman, David Cooper, who was already signed to build an architect's house on a Grand Street (He called it "Bastard Victorian").

We were loved a concept that did not have any other previous work. He had seen $10,000 in new addition to the house. He had seen $10,000 in new addition to the house. He had seen $10,000 in new addition to the house.

Three days a house had been done in the house of an architect. He had seen $10,000 in new addition to the house. He had seen $10,000 in new addition to the house. He had seen $10,000 in new addition to the house.

want to pay less income tax?

Here's how smart Canadians are paying less income tax and building a retirement income to supplement their Canada Pension Plan.

WHAT'S AN ANNUITY?

A Canadian Government Annuity is an investment you make to guarantee you a definite income every year for the rest of your life. The more you pay, the more you get. The more you pay, the more you get.

For instance, you can choose the 1st Plan for a monthly income as long as you live. Or the Guaranteed Plan, also payable for life, but on a non-vested basis. Or the 2nd Plan, which is a Canadian Government Annuity. The more you pay, the more you get.

YOU CAN TAKE IT WITH YOU

Your Canadian Government Annuity is fully portable. That means that if you change jobs, or go into business for yourself, you can use it to supplement your personal income or after your lifetime.

Perhaps you're already paying into a registered pension plan through your employer. It's an interesting idea to supplement your income by paying into a pension plan. The more you pay, the more you get.

A SECURE SUPPLEMENT TO OTHER RETIREMENT INCOME

Now is the time to plan for your retirement. The more you pay, the more you get.

The O'Keefe Knight is the symbol of brewing excellence from coast to coast.

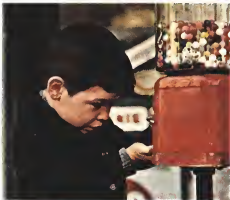

"You've taken my Queen, my Bishop, my Rook, but please, oh please, don't take my Knight!"

Where the knight's concerned, quality is the name of the game.

For a drink, O'Keefe chooses the knight too. In fact, we chose him years ago to symbolize the brewing excellence and quality we must live up to. Canadian craft beer, because craft and more are enjoying O'Keefe Ale and Old Vienna. Why not join them?

The age of acquisition. Every family goes through it. They're the years when it seems that paying for the necessities of modern life—home, furniture, appliances, car, etc.—makes it extremely difficult to save. Yet you know full well that you should be saving. ❧ But how? How can you spend and still have a clear conscience? ❧ With life insurance. Permanent life insurance with guaranteed cash value. Insurance that does more than just promise to pay. Insurance that creates savings because a good part of every premium is, in effect, a deposit. At the same time as your family is getting the kind of financial protection you want them to have, you are also saving, through the magic of compound interest. ❧ By the time your children are grown and gone, you'll have already acquired the things you want and your insurance will have accumulated much of the savings you need. You'll have more than just government or company pension plans to depend on. You'll have a guaranteed independent income. ❧ Talk to a Great-West Life man. Ask all the questions you like.
